If, as Dulles reported (& contrary to Eisenhower's memory of all other participants) the CIA plan did not depend on an uprising in what, Bay Area, did it depend? Conquest of the island, capture of Castro & seizure of armed forces by the force initially landed? Bay of Pigs was built in failure. This makes sense only if the CIA's real plan was to create a situation in which the US would have to take part openly, which had already been formally disapproved by Pres.
Note, however, this was Eisenhower expecting to get elected.
